LONG CARRIAGE COAT.

Trimming of Perforated Straps.

Our illustration shows an exceedingly rich and handsome long coat of black taffeta cut with jabot vest effect and trimmed with perforated straps over white satin. It has a large tucked taffeta collar supplemented with another of embroidered linen and a tasteful garniture in white appears on the ruffles around the bottom. All the stitching is done with Corticelli stitching silk in black and in white and the garment is lined throughout with white satin.

Some yokes are made of lace and rather a pretty effect is gained by adding a row of lace insertion an inch or so below the yoke and joining it with a lattice of narrow velvet ribbon. The fancy for black and white effects is evidenced in the number of white lawn, organdy and null gowns trimmed with black lace, both edging and insertion, and the quantity of black and white effects, running from lawns and mulls through the various mercerized fabrics to foulards and silks.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

To Pastors, Superintendents and Teachers:

The tenth International Sunday School Convention will hold its triennial session in Denver, Colo., June 26 to June 30, 1902. Representatives will be present from every State and Territory in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, the British North American Provinces, Mexico and Cuba. South Carolina is entitled to thirty-six (36) delegates. This convention will in all probability be the most important ever held, as questions of great interest to the Sunday schools will come before this body. A new lesson committee is to be elected to serve for six years, whose duty it will be to select the lessons for 1906-1911. It is the desire of the State executive committee the South Carolina delegation shall be thoroughly representative of all the evangelical denominations; pastors, superintendents, teachers and scholars are eligible. Entertainment free of cost will be provided for all having credentials from the executive committee. At the last State Sunday school convention, which was held in Greenwood, quite a number of delegates were elected, and the executive committee was authorized to fill vacancies and take steps to secure a full delegation. To this end requests for appointments should be made to the undersigned at an early date. For the honor of this great cause in our State, we hope to send up a full delegation from South Carolina.

All the railroads are offering convenient schedules, and there will be special trains from several points. Fuller information may be had by applying to Wm. E. Pelham, chairman State executive committee.

LET US HOPE IT WILL PASS.

A Bill for the Relief of the Men Who Have Given Charleston so Magnificent an Exposition.

Washington, May 22.—A bill for the relief of the Inter-State and West Indian Exposition at Charleston, S. C., was introduced today by Representative Latimer. The bill carries an appropriation of $150,000, for the purpose of paying off the indebtedness of the Exposition Company.

men backed by the government of the United States, and here's the way this local government—consisting, as said, of but five men—does business: "By the authority of the President of the United States be it enacted by the Philippine commission that a million dollars be appropriated for—." And so we have put in existence in those islands government far worse than we ever endured here in carpet-bag days, because those poor, helpless people—colored people though they are—are bound hand and foot without being able to speak the English language and make known the wrongs they are enduring. And we, as liberty-loving Americans, can only stand as a party opposed to this hellish scheme. And this convention and other conventions of the Democratic party have opposed it as Un-American.

What about the prospects of the party winning? Prosperity, or what is called prosperity, seems to continue. There is some indication that everybody isn't prosperous, however. We have a strike in Pennsylvania in which 140,000 coal miners have gone out to try and secure a redress of what they consider grievance. The trusts are reaching out to control every avenue of business and to make this country a country divided between millionaires and paupers. They control the press. They have throughout the Northern States control of every newspaper of any degree of popularity or with any circulation amounting to anything; they control every one of them I know anything about except about five. They are the instruments by which the masses are deceived. The editors are not known. They are brilliant writers, paid large salaries and put into their office with orders to edit these papers as "we want you to do"—in the interest of "my bank," or "my railroad," or "my corporation," or "my trust."

We Southerners, we former Confederates or sons of Confederates, occupy a place apart in this Government. We are looked upon as "rebels." We are treated as step daughters or step children, with no rights those people are bound to respect. They have in the last forty years granted to other sections two and half billion dollars for the pension grab alone, and the tariff grab, and a big percentage of this money has been taken from this section—you and I have been robbed of it. Two and one half billions, did I say? It has been more than that, but I want to be within the facts. Here in the South we are confronted on the one hand by Northern Republicans, who are still harboring sectional hatred and are trying to reduce our representation in Congress—here in this State from seven to four—and on the other we are face to face with this situation.

A WORD ON THE MILL SITUATION.

Every railroad that passes through our country is owned up there; the telegraph lines are owned up there; most of these factories we have been talking about here tonight are owned up there. Half of the stock invested in South Carolina is owned outside requires physical and mental ability of a high degree to withstand its hard labors. The high tension to which the nervous system is constantly subjected, has a depressing effect, and soon headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, etc., develop in severe form. Such was the case of Mail Carrier S. F. Swinhart, of Huntsville, Ala., he says: "An attack of pneumonia left me with muscular rheumatism, headache, and pains that seemed to be all over me. I was scarcely able to move for about a month when I decided to give Dr. Miles' Pain Pills a trial. In three days I was again on my route and in two weeks I was free from pain and gaining in flesh and strength." Sold by all Druggists. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

of South Carolina and, while we welcome these Northerners here and desire that thousands of them should come here and shall be treated justly and fairly, we must not forget that they come here not for our good, but for their own selfish benefits. They look upon us as a lemon to be squeezed. (Laughter.)

And the other day, when in answer to taunts and insults that no brave South Carolinian could stand, I got up in my seat and answered them and defended the State and the South and our people and brought out the facts in regard to the burning of this city in 1865 and convicted Sherman out of his own mouth of having lied on Wade Hampton about it, the Associated Press sent broadcast over the land the statement that my Democratic colleagues were very much outraged over my utterance and retired in disgust from the senate chamber. I don't know whether they retired or not and I don't care. What did you send me there for—to bootlick around like a licked hound and whine when I am insulted? I can't do it—I ain't built that way. So I told them the truth and hit them between the eyes.

I pointed out this condition: That during the dark days of the civil war, when all the men of the South were away in the army and only the youngest boys and feeblest old men were left at home; when those like Harriet Beecher Stowe at the North, who had depicted the cruelty of the white master, said that now the slaves would take the opportunity to revenge themselves upon their masters—that during that period there is not one instance on record of any negro having mistreated any white woman—not one crime. Is that to the credit of the negro alone? I asked them. Is it not also to the credit to the white masters who had up lifted him? He loved his master and the tie was mutual in a general way. But you—and I pointed my fists in the faces of my political opponents, the Republicans, across the aisle—you, by your damnable doctrine of equality, have taught those poor, ignorant creatures down South to think that they are as good as the whites, their former master, or better, and today you never pick up a paper but you find recorded there in all its horrible details the story of some shocking crime.

I mention this merely as a sample of the kind of speech I made. Good people here have not understood the situation and a lot of the editors here have lent themselves to the pitiful whine and cry of the subsidized Associated Press and the Republican newspapers at the North. They have condemned me as a marplot and said I had injured the Democratic chances in this national fight by coming out and bearing those hypocrites to their teeth. "You prate about the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man and all that sort of thing," I told them. "You taunt us with our treatment of the negroes—why you have butchered and robbed and burned more in three years in the Philippines than the South has in three hundred years."

I went on and told them that we were not responsible for the presence among us of negroes; that their fathers went to Africa and sold them, brought them to this country and sold them to us and then went home and prayed to the Lord to free them. I told them that the hypocrisy was just oozing out of them all over. I pointed to the fact that we did not put the negroes in the South and can't help it that they are here, "but you," I said to them, "went into the Pacific and bought your negroes to butcher and burn and rob." I don't know whether I ought to have said those things or not, but I feel that it is time for Southern men to assert their manhood. I have been going around over the North lecturing—I am notorious, you know. (Laughter.) I don't know but what notoriety will some day grow into fame. It doesn't matter much. I will soon be gone to the hereafter and if my name goes down into history as the "Notorious Tillman" it is a matter of indifference to me. But I have been lecturing about the negro among these Northern people and making them pay to hear me, and if I don't tell them the truth and hit them between the eyes! And they applaud me to the echo. I show them that the negro is no longer a name to conjure with; in fact, if it wasn't that he held the balance of power in Maryland and Delaware and Indiana and other border States they would throw him over tomorrow, but they are between the devil and the deep blue sea and they have to keep up their cant for political reasons.

I don't know what the prospect is in regard to this coming election. We have hopes that the revelation of the infamies perpetrated by our soldiers in the Philippines, the burnings and tortures and murders and shooting down of "all over ten" will awaken the consciences of the really good people at the North—and there are millions of them. We look upon Yankess—as a general thing—as something mean and despicable, but from personal contact with them in Washington and in the different places at the North where I meet them when out lecturing I find that the masses of the Northern people are just as good clever and honorable and Christian and patriotic as we are—but they do dearly love a dollar! (Laughter.) And I have hopes that this great contingent, involving millions, will be brought to a realizing sense of the infamies that are being perpetrated on those poor creatures in the East—and in behalf of what? We have spent $400,000, 000 in subjugating the Philippines and we are not yet through. There is one large island, Mindanao, as large as South Carolina, where they only began two weeks ago to make an effort in asserting authority. I don't know whether the Northern people will keep on furnishing money to the army to keep up this work or not, but my idea of the duty of patriots in the South, North and everywhere else is to stand by the principles of Democracy as Jefferson formulated them, as Jackson illustrated them and as Bryan defended them and keep it up forever. And to us in the Southland, won for us first by Montrie and Sumter and Marion and Pickens and won back again in '76 by Hampton, it is an especial duty.

UNION STRUCK BY A TORNADO.

The Knitting Mill Hill Caught the Full Force of the Storm—Six Killed; Many Injured.

Union, S. C., May 25.—This place was visited this afternoon by a terrible tornado. The storm came from the north and it seems there was also one from the southwest, meeting in this vicinity. It played havoc, four deaths and considerable loss of property as the results. The storm from the north was preceded by a heavy rain and what appeared to be a dark mass about one hundred yards wide. It traveled with great speed and people barely had time to get in doors before the storm was upon the town. The wing of the storm passed along Main street and blew several store doors open, doing more or less damage.

Knitting Mill Hill, south of the town, caught the full force of the tornado, which blew down the school house and two residences, converting them literally into kindling wood. The occupants flew from one of the houses before it went to pieces and took refuge in another near by, but this house was also crushed to splinters. In this house Misses Salie Hart and Annie Lawson were instantly killed, Mrs. Maxey Sims died in an hour and her little daughter Weva died about 9 o'clock. Maxey Sims escaped with a broken finger. Mr. Lee Sims received a bad but not fatal cut on the head. Mrs. Mabry and her two children escaped with slight injuries.

It took sometime to get the victims from the debris. Every physician in town was soon upon the scene, also President Nicholson and Manager Gault of the Excelsior Knitting mills, and willing hands assisted in relieving the sufferers as much as possible.

The news spread rapidly and the hill was soon full of people from town, anxious to render every assistance possible. Everything that the families had was destroyed.

Jonesville reports in a telegram to Miss Lawson, the lady who was killed, that the storm was fearful at that place and one of her family had been killed there. Miss Lawson was dead when the telegram arrived.
